My Lords and Gentlemen,

I Cannot put an End to this Session, without returning my hearty Thanks to so good a Parliament, for the Dispatch which has been given to the publick Business. You will, I hope, in your private Capacities feel the Convenience of an early Recess; and I am perswaded the Publick will receive great Benefit by the seasonable Zeal and Vigour of your Resolutions in Support of my Government.

Nothing can add so much to the Credit and Influence of this Crown, both at Home and Abroad, as the repeated Instances of your Affection to me. This Steadiness and Resolution of yours will, I hope, enable me to procure, against your next Meeting, such Treaties to be concluded, as will settle Peace and Tranquillity among our Neighbours.

If, through the Blessing of God, my Endeavours to this End prove successful, I shall have the Satisfaction to silence even those who will never own themselves convinced; and to let all the World see plainly, that what I have most at Heart, is the Good and Welfare of my People, who may then be eased in their Taxes, and enriched by their Trade.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I must return you my particular Thanks for the Supplies you have so cheerfully granted and for the late Instance of your Confidence in me. I promise you that my Endeavours shall not be wanting to make use of both to the best Advantage for the Good of my People.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The Practices which are daily used by a most restless and unhappy Set of Men to disturb a Government by whose Clemency they are protected, require our utmost Attention and Vigilance. I must therefore recommend it to you, that in your several Stations, and Countries, you will endeavour to quell that Spirit of Disaffection, which our common Enemies are so industrious to foment.

And then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's Command, said,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

HIS Majesty's Royal Will and Pleasure is, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tuesday the Twentieth Day of May next, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly Prorogued to Tuesday the Twentieth Day of May next.

Francfort,
